

Our mission is to de-risk online commerce.

Returnly was born from a vision of a radically improved online marketplace where all constituents have aligned interests. Online commerce as we know it is flawed: the lack of product evaluation and assessment is a source of friction that supply has failed to eliminate. As a result, consumers are asked to factor in some uncertain, variable transaction costs. Returnly's mission is to fix this problem. We're using modern technology to build the catalyst that will enable a de-risked online marketplace.